Buskirk explains dormitory restrictions

Why was Marshall singled out for criticism on its use of dormitory restrictions against misbehaving coeds?

The question arose last Sunday when the Charleston Gazette-Mail published an editorial entitled "Marshall Adult School, Not a Nursery for Babies."

Lillian H. Buskirk, associate dean of students, was taken to task for what the newspaper described as "medieval punishment." Moreover, she was erroneously identified in the editorial as "associate dean of women."

Dean Buskirk reported the policy of restricting women students to their rooms was adopted by the various dormitory councils which handle minor discipline problems.

Also, the system is used by "almost all" colleges and universities, she said.

(The Parthenon checked with deans of women at Morris Harvey College at Charleston and West Virginia University at Morgantown. Both administrators said their schools used essentially the same procedure.)

The controversy stemmed from a previous Charleston newspaper article contending that errant coeds were "locked" in their rooms. The report was attributed to a former counselor of Prichard Hall.

Later, the student said she had been misquoted and that she meant the women were "locked in from the outside world."

Locks on all individual room doors in MU dormitories can be unlocked from the inside, Dean Buskirk stated.

"It is impossible for a student to be locked in a dormitory room at Marshall," she reported.

The unlock-from-the-inside doorknob is required under state fire laws.

State Fire Marshal Lewis Myles, after investigating the "locked in" article, announced Nov. 28:

"If the girl inside has to get out, she can unset the lock just by turning her doorknob."

He reported two investigators from his office visited the MU campus and removed any fear that the girls might be trapped in case of fire.

Dean Buskirk said coeds restricted to their rooms are not permitted to have visitors. Residence directors or their assistants, who carry room master keys, make periodic checks to ensure the girls' safety, the dean said.

An editorial

WVU students attitude on game encouraging

Encouraging signs came from the West Virginia University campus last week when some student leaders there reacted favorably to The Parthenon's challenge that Marshall and WVU meet in a basketball game this season on a neutral court.

Certain members of the staff of The Daily Athenaeum, the WVU student newspaper, indicated they thought athletic relations between the state's two universities would be healthy for both.

Fain Miller, Summersville junior and assistant news editor of The Athenaeum, said, "The students here would like to see athletic competition between the two universities."

Then Martin Coy, editor-in-chief of the WVU paper, said he believes the idea deserves consideration and negotiation, but he questioned whether there could be an official game since both teams are allowed to play only so many games a year under NCAA rules.

A senior basketball player, Jim Lewis, said many of the WVU players would like to play Marshall. He offered a suggestion which should be looked into. That was that if NCAA rules prohibit a regular game, that the senior members of each team might play a "barnstorming" game at the end of the season to promote better relations between MU and WVU.

Hooray for them.

This is the kind of spirit and concern that has been needed for a long time.

One veteran observer here at MU said the comments from Morgantown were the most encouraging expressed in years toward promoting cooperation between campuses.

And considerable interest also has been shown at Marshall for the proposed game and competition with WVU in all sports.

However, action by the Student Senate last week was disappointing to say the least.

Sen. Suzanne Maddox, Nitro sophomore, moved that the Marshall Student Senate go on record in support of better relations with WVU.

But the Senate chose to table the motion for further study after Sen. Ron Beatty asked it be withdrawn because the NCAA rules only allowed a team to play 25 games and that both universities' teams already had 25 games scheduled.

Here's what the motion stated:

"Be it herewith resolved that the Marshall University Student Senate go on record as supporting better relations between our state universities through athletic competition. The WVU and Marshall student bodies could and should better their relationship immediately. We, the Senate, suggest they do so now with a post-season basketball game."

As for the last sentence, if the Senate is so concerned about that why not just change it to supporting a post season game "if at all possible."

Let us here at Marshall — the student body — go all out to show our "cousins" in Morgantown that we are willing to go all the way to promote this understanding that is long over due.

The motion is to come before the Senate again Wednesday. The full intent of the proposal should be realized and the motion passed and sent to WVU.

Some say integration 'too revolutionary'

By FRANKIE STAPLETON
Staff Reporter

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series.)

While most students, both Negro and white, feel the majority of Negro students at Marshall are well adjusted academically, the acceptance of Negroes into the social organizations is questionable.

When questioned as to the feasibility of a Negro student receiving a bid to join one of Marshall's Greek organizations, several fraternity and sorority presidents agreed their organizations would "eventually be integrated" but, at present, the idea was still a little "too revolutionary."

However, two fraternity presidents feel it is presently possible for a Negro to receive a bid.

"If he's got the qualifications, I believe he could get a bid," stated Scott Smith, president of Kappa Alpha fraternity. "However, I feel the Negroes themselves are a little leary to try it."

Smith reported not one Negro in his five years with the Kappa Alpha's has tried to rush.

He explained most Greek organizations used the unanimous rule in selecting members.

"Sometimes a white boy just doesn't fit in so he doesn't receive a bid. If a Negro tried to rush and did not receive a bid on the same grounds, no matter what, he would feel it was racial discrimination.

"Let's get some good, sharp people out and run them through rush — and not just two or three. It may even take two or three semesters. But then if they're not accepted, then claim discrimination," Smith continued.

Both Robert Browning, president of Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Smith agreed the first fraternity or sorority that pledges a Negro will be "on the spot."

As to the results of such a move by a Greek organization, all stated they could not honestly predict the outcome. The consensus was "It has to be tried before I could draw a conclusion."

It was also agreed the organization's main concern would have to be the effect this stand would have on their organization, both within the organization and its position in the community.

One anonymous source felt the fraternities will be much quicker in their acceptance of Negro members than the sororities.

Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority president, Dianna Muth, said, "we would have to feel our way."

All racial or religious discriminatory rules are now deleted from national charters, according to those interviewed.

It was also noted Negroes are not barred from any fraternity or sorority house at Marshall.

(Next week—Comments from the administration, presidents of IFC and Pan-Hellenic and Kappa Alpha Psi).

Q. Is it true that President Smith will enter politics when he leaves Marshall next summer? If not, what are his plans?

AN ADMIRER

A. Dr. Smith likes hats so he won't be throwing any of them into the political ring. "Nothing definite" is his reply to the second query. He did say he was considering a "second career." However, details are lacking at present. The President and Mrs. Smith will travel for a few months.

Q. Was Coach Johnson an all-American in college. Also, what is his home state?

NOSEY

A. That is the "under-question" of the year. Not only did Ellis Johnson earn all-American recognition in college (basketball and football at the University of Kentucky in 1933), he was a high school all-American in 1928 when Ashland, Ky. High School won the national championship. Coach Johnson is the only athlete in the history of UK to earn letters in four varsity sports (basketball, football, baseball and track) in one year. Coach Johnson once played 28 straight college basketball games without committing a personal. (PS — Fortunately, we have no statistics on the points scored by his defensive assignments during that streak.

Q. What ever happened to The Procrastination Society which evolved on campus last year?

A PUT-OFFER

A. Our contact in the group says they are preparing a demonstration against America's involvement in the War of 1812.

Q. Why did the Athletic Department decide against distributing basketball schedule posters around the state this year? Considering the $100,000 advance ticket sales to "outsiders," surely it wasn't a question of finances.

BECKLEY BOOSTER

A. Edgar O. Barrett, former sports information director at WVU, decided the posters were not needed. We are still searching for his reason. Stay tuned for further details.

Letter to the editor

To the Editor:

I hope that the constructive criticism that has been fired at Marshall recently will not be taken too lightly. I am referring to two articles in particular that appeared in the Charleston newspapers. The first article reprimanded the Athletic Department. The second article was an editorial that condemned a punishment imposed on female dormitory residents.

A column by A. L. Hardman in the Nov. 20 edition of the Charleston Gazette blasted the Marshall University Athletic Department for the grossly unfair seating arrangement that was provided for Morris Harvey students. Some Marshall students felt that the 188 tickets that were allotted to the Charleston college were too many. At first I agreed, since the Memorial Field House is small and not every Marshall fan can attend all the home games. When I thought the situation over a second time, I realized that everyone on this campus knows Marshall University has the best basketball team in the state. Why not let a larger portion of the visiting schools see their teams get trounced so there would be no doubt in the opposition's mind about who has the best basketball team in the state. I hear Morris Harvey is planning revenge. It has been rumored that the tickets for the Marshall - Morris "Harvy" game in Charleston have Marshall "College" printed on them with the French word "touche" in the corner.

The same type criticism became even more constructive when the Dec. 3 edition of the Sunday Gazette-Mail featured a lead editorial entitled, "Marshall: Adult School, Not a Nursery for Babies."

The theme of the editorial was that a Marshall female student had said that girl students were frequently locked into their rooms for breaking various regulations. Although it was locked from the inside, no one from the outside could unlock the door to visit the punished girl. Marshall's associate dean of students said that the story was completely untrue. After a reporter's investigation the student's charge was found to be true. In the editorial the Gazette-Mail wanted to know whether Marshall is running a citadel of knowledge or a reform school. The editorial said, "Marshall, we thought, is in the business of providing educations for young adults — not unweaned infants."

Gov. Hulett Smith last month abolished a punishment at Prunytown that had some of the characteristics of the above punishment. This punishment consisted of making a violator sit on a bench in a room and stare at a wall for lengthy periods of time. Governor Smith said that punishments of this type could serve no useful purpose. The punishment at Prunytown was much more strenuous and inhuman than the restriction of a woman at Marshall, but I feel that the intent behind both of these disciplinary measures can only be medieval in nature.

Cheering gets male touch

A new addition to cheering the squad for basketball season will be two male members: Walter "pineapple" Lett, Arlington, Va. senior and Kenny Barber, Stamford, Conn. sophomore.

"We expect to get more variety in the cheers and greater enthusiasm from the crowd with the help of these fellows," said Vicki Lambert, Parkersburg sophomore and varsity cheerleader.

'TIS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY

Yuletide is almost upon us. Let's stop wasting time in classes and get on with our Christmas shopping. Following are a number of gift suggestions, all easily obtainable at your nearest war surplus boutique.

First, a most unusual gift idea, brand new this year and certain to please everyone on your list—a gift certificate from the American Veterinary Medicine Association! Each certificate is accompanied by this charming poem:

Merry Christmas, north and south,
Does your cow have hoof and mouth?

And your dog, fidele semper,
Here's a cure for his distemper.

Little kitten, cute and squirmy,
Bring her in. I think she's wormy.

To bunnies, turtles, parrots green,
Joyeux Noel! Heureux Vaccine!

Are you wondering what to give that extra-special man on your list? Stop wondering. Give him that extra-special shaving combination, Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades and Burma Shave. Each gift is accompanied by this charming poem:

Christmas merry, New Year bonny,
From your friendly blade Personny.

You will have the ladies fawning,
If you're shaving with Persawning.

Injector style or double edges,
Both are made by good Persedges.

And Burma-Shave in plain or menthol,
Leaves your face as smooth as renthol.

(NOTE: As everyone knows, renthol is the smoothest substance ever discovered. You may not know, however, that renthol is named after its inventor, Ralph Waldo Renthol, who developed it by crossing a swan with a ball bearing.)

(Interestingly enough, Mr. Renthol did not start out to be an inventor. Until age 50 he was a Western Union boy. Then fate took a hand. One day while delivering a singing telegram to a girl named Claudia Sigafos, Ralph noted to his surprise that the telegram was signed "Claudia Sigafos!" She had sent herself a birthday greeting!

(When pressed to explain, Claudia told Ralph a heart-rending tale. It seems that when she was only six weeks old, her parents were killed in an avalanche. The infant Claudia was found by a pair of kindly caribou who raised her as their own. They taught her all they knew—like how to rub bark off a tree and which lichens are better than other lichens—but in time they saw that this was not enough. When Claudia reached age 18, they entered her in Bennington.

(Unused to people, Claudia lived a lonely life—so lonely, in fact, that she was reduced to sending herself birthday greetings, as we have seen.

(Ralph, deeply touched, married Claudia and tried his best to make her mingle with people. It didn't work. They went nowhere, saw no one, except for an annual Christmas visit to Claudia's foster parents, Buck and Doe. To while away his long, lonely hours, Ralph finally built a work bench and started to futz around with inventions, as we have seen.

(It is pleasant to report that the story of Ralph and Claudia ends happily. After the birth of their two children, Donder and Blitzen, Claudia joined the PTA and soon overcame her fear of people. Ralph joined the Elks.)

But I digress. Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night! Ho-ho-ho!

Rifles plus ruffles - ?

Pershing Ruffles was the name chosen for the girls drill team at a meeting last week. The girls decided on the name because of their affiliation with the Pershing Rifles. The coeds have been practicing drills since the middle of September.

"The girls thought the name was rather catchy and I hope the other students like it since we will be representing Marshall in meets next spring," said Jai Howell, Huntington, N. Y., sophomore.

Uniforms are to be ordered soon and should arrive after Christmas. They will be light-blue with white accessories and the girls will wear black heels.

The coeds are now working on a sequence and hope to be able to arrange a performance at a home basketball game later in the season.

Pledges will be taken second semester.

"As yet we don't know how many pledges will be taken or how they will be selected. We hope to have the final details soon," said the commanding officer, cadet Capt. Carole Kirby, Huntington sophomore.

Other officers elected were executive officer, Charlotte Pritt, Sissonville sophomore; adjutant, Sheena Ferguson, Sissonville junior; public information officer, Ruth Ann Cornell, Huntington freshman; operations, Jeri Brisco, South Point, Ohio, freshman; finance and supply, Sheila Rice, first sergeant, Becki Moore, Huntington sophomore.

The first spring meet will be held at Marshall March 9.

DAVID SMITH

David Smith: A good catch

By DAVID MASSEY
Sports Writer

EDITORS NOTE — This is the first of a series of five features on the freshman basketball squad.

While you are watching a freshman basketball game and a boy named David Smith nets a jump-shot from the corner, you will probably think that he is just another player that Head Coach, Ellis Johnson, has recruited. Did you know that he could have attended Michigan State on a football scholarship?

In fact, Smith, who is from Dayton, Ohio, had 12 football scholarship offers and approximately 30 basketball offers. Wichita State, Arizona State and Michigan State approached him concerning football, and Mid-American Conference teams, Kent State University, Bowling Green State University and Miami University tried to sign him for basketball.

Choosing Marshall, Smith said he felt that he would have a better chance playing for a smaller school. Freshman Coach Larry McKenzie said that was one of the things he tried to point out to Smith. He said Marshall wasn't a large school but it was playing big-time basketball.

The 6-6, 200 pound forward played his high school ball on the highly touted Dayton Roosevelt team. He was chosen to the all-area, all-city, and all southwestern teams in football and received the all-city lineman of the year award. He received honorable mention on the all-area team in basketball.

On recruiting Smith, Coach McKenzie said, "He was the first man we went after. After scouting him, he not only impressed us as an athlete but also as a person. He has an interest to excel and the interest to learn, and he has the size and strength to do it."

Smith excelled in Tuesday's contest against Morehead's freshman by scoring 28 points.

Athletics are not strange in Smith's family. He has a brother playing semi-pro football in Dayton and a younger brother playing baseball in high school.

Smith said that he wasn't having much trouble adapting to MU's style of basketball, because in high school, they used the fast break.

New intramural policy will determine champs

Because of a change in policy, the intramural champion will be determined differently this year. The teams will be placed in one of two categories — Greek or independent. All points earned by Greek organizations will be compiled and compared to the total earned by all the independent teams. The group with the most points, either Greek or independent, will be announced as the over-all intramural champion.

The change came after an Intramural Board meeting last Tuesday. The motion was made by Dave Clevan, representing Pi Kappa Alpha, and seconded by Dave Life, representing Sigma Phi Epsilon. The vote was 6-5 in favor of the policy.

Mike Allen, graduate assistant, said the change was made to increase interest and competition among the different teams. He added that the new ruling was being accepted favorably by the teams and organizations.

Do you buy a shirt or a label?

You buy both, if you're smart. Because a good label means a good shirt. A shirt that's styled to last. With rolls, pleats and tapers in the right places. And a wide enough selection of colors so you don't have to buy the same shade twice.

This Arrow "Cum Laude" Oxford has all the things a good label means. Button-down roll collar with a soft flare. Tapered waist. Perma-Iron so it won't wrinkle. "Sanforized-Plus." And it comes in blue, pinks, stripes, etc., etc., for $7.00.

So, if you want a good shirt, look for a good label. And if you want the best label, buy a shirt made by Arrow.

Here's a shirt specifically tailored for college men. Fashioned of durable weave oxford (perma-iron) that's as new as today. Traditional button-down collar with the perfect roll. In white and a wide selection of solids and unusual stripes. "Sanforized-Plus" labeled.

A bill providing a salary for the student body president and vice president was enacted by the Student Senate Wednesday.

According to the bill, a sum of $80 per month for nine months, plus tuition and books, would be paid to both officers.

At present, both offices receive allotments for tuition and books, but no regular salary.

The bill, presented by Huntington junior, Sen. Jane Braley, would be effective beginning in March.

At present, the Student Government executive secretary receives $75 a month, the business manager receives $65 and the senate secretary, $20; all from state funds.

The bill will go to the Budget Committee which will seek necessary funds.

In other Senate action, a resolution was passed to send a letter to Athletic Director Eddie Barrett voicing the Senate's "displeasure" on the method of distributing basketball tickets.

The resolution asked a committee be formed to meet with the Athletic Board to discuss a better method.

A resolution providing consolation offices to the losing team in elections for student body president and vice president was referred to the Student Government Affairs Committee.

A resolution supporting "better relations between our state universities through athletic competition" was tabled.

Callebs announces he will run again in '68

John S. Callebs, assistant professor of social studies, plans to file for the office of Secretary of State on the Republican ticket. He ran unsuccessfully for the office in 1966.

If elected, Mr. Callebs' main concern, he said, will be to secure cleaner elections in the state.

Higher education will be another issue in Mr. Callebs' campaign.

"I'm strongly in favor of re-organized higher education. Marshall has been given somewhat less than first rate treatment," he said.

With Marshall's own governing board, said Mr. Callebs, it could fully realize its potential as a state university. It could really become the educational center of the industrial complex in the state — the Ohio and Kanawha valleys, he said.

"Rather than seeing rivalry between West Virginia University and Marshall, which the state can ill afford, we need a co-ordination of effort," Mr. Callebs said.
